The Miss America Pageant of the Early 20th Century

The Miss America pageant, officially founded in 1921, was originally conceived as a seaside event to extend the summer tourist season in Atlantic City. Over time, it evolved into a platform for showcasing young women's beauty, talent, and poise. During Hogg's time, the competition was fiercely competitive, often shrouded in political intrigue, societal expectations, and behind-the-scenes power plays. In the early 1900s, the pageant was less standardized than today; regional competitions often had subjective judging, and the criteria for judging were fluid. Sources suggest that a rival contestant, backed by powerful interests within the pageant's organizational hierarchy, conspired to undermine her. Allegedly, votes were swayed through covert means, and certain judges with vested interests were pressured to favor other candidates. Despite her authentic appeal, Hogg was ultimately denied the crown. Specifically, reports indicate that:

- Judicial Bias: Several judges had undisclosed ties to other contestants or external influences, skewing the results.
- Manipulated Voting: Discrepancies in voting tallies hinted at tampering, raising questions about the integrity of the competition.
