Understanding Back Control

Why Is Back Control Important?

Back control offers multiple advantages:

1. High Control Level: It limits the opponent's movement, making escape difficult.
2. Opportunities for Submission: It provides access to chokeholds like the rear-naked choke.
3. Strategic Dominance: It allows you to dictate the pace and flow of the fight.
4. Minimal Risk: Proper back control reduces exposure to strikes or counters.

Getting What You Want with Back Control

Whether your goal is to submit, control, or neutralize your opponent, establishing and maintaining back control is often the most effective way to achieve those objectives.

1. Taking the Back from the Standing Position
 1. Use takedowns or throws to bring your opponent to the ground.
 2. Drive for a seat belt grip or body lock, then slip behind.
2. Back Control from the Guard
 1. From closed or open guard, set up a back take by breaking their posture.
 2. Use techniques like the "body lock" or "sit-up back take".
3. From the Top Position
 1. Transition from side control or mount to back control by underhooking or slipping behind.

Securing the Back

Once behind your opponent, securing the back involves:

1. Hooks: Insert your legs inside their thighs, wrapping around their hips to prevent escape.
2. Seat Belt Grip: Wrap one arm over their shoulder and the other under their armpit, gripping your own hands or wrist for control.
