- Ancient Greek and Roman Traditions: In Greek mythology, the Underworld (Hades) was depicted as a shadowy realm with distinct regions, including Tartarus—a place of torment and punishment. While not explicitly a city, later traditions personified regions within the underworld as structured spaces, sometimes depicted as sprawling, city-like domains inhabited by spirits and mythic beings.
- Christian Theology: The concept of Hell evolved into a fiery, city-like realm of punishment, notably depicted in Dante Alighieri's Divine Comedy as the "Inferno," a structured, layered city of torment with various circles representing sins. Dante's portrayal influenced Western imagery of the infernal city as a meticulously ordered, hierarchical place of suffering. - Other Cultural Traditions: Similar concepts appear in Zoroastrian, Hindu, and indigenous mythologies, where realms of the dead or punishment are depicted as elaborate, city-like domains.
